

Jubilant, IDRI extend JV for research

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai

JUBILANT Chemsys, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Jubilant Life Sciences, on Monday announced an extension of collaborative partnership with infectious disease research institute (IDRI) for TB drug discovery.

Today is the World Tuberculosis day, designated to build public awareness about the disease.

Jubilant Chemsys offers drug discovery research services on full time equivalent and fees-for-services basis, a company statement said here.

With this association, Jubilant will continue to provide chemistry and medicinal chemistry support to IDRI. The company is also evaluating further liasioning with IDRI in key functional areas like computational chemistry and Drug Metabolism and Pharmacokinetics (DMPK) services.

Jubilant Chemsys, under the terms of agreement, so far had been offering philanthropic support.
