

DRUG FIRM TO BE PROSECUTED FOR ADULTERATION

The Supreme Court last week allowed the prosecution of a drug company, its managing director and some directors under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act. In this case, Dinesh Patel vs State of Gujarat, the directors argued that they were not actively involved in the manufacture and sale of the adulterated drugs. The court stated that their role should be determined in the trial and therefore, the prosecution cannot be quashed at the threshold itself.
